1. Introduction

What is Tharros Place?

Tharros Place is a 12-bed residential facility for survivors of human trafficking, girls ages 12 to 17, located in Chatham County, Georgia. Since opening in December 2023, Tharros Place has provided support for our participants through trauma-informed care, transitional housing, restorative treatment and customized success plans. Open 24/7 with at least two trained professionals on staff, Tharros Place is the first residential home for minor survivors of human trafficking in the Chatham County area. Our facility's location remains undisclosed to protect our residents and staff.

Mission Statement:
Cultivate a culture of courage for adolescent survivors of human trafficking through compassionate and safe residential care, empowered and respected staff, and collaborative community outreach.

Values:

- Courage: We value courage as the force that drives bold actions and positive change. It fuels our resilience, innovation, and commitment to empowering communities.
- Trust: Trust is our foundation, built on transparency, integrity, and accountability. We value diverse perspectives and treat everyone with dignity and empathy.
- Transformational Change: We believe in giving youth better lives through innovative, tailored solutions. By challenging norms and offering education, skills, and support, we help them become agents of change.
- WOW: We strive for excellence, aiming to exceed expectations and inspire WOW moments through creative impact and celebrated achievements.
- Youth-Centered: We empower youth to shape our programs, ensuring their voices are heard and respected. Our goal is to support their growth and confidence for a brighter future.

Purpose of This Toolkit

This toolkit is designed to provide comprehensive resources, partners, and opportunities for youth to discover a world outside of trafficking. It includes community resources, partner organizations, and various programs at local, state, and national levels aimed at supporting and empowering survivors of trafficking.

How to Use This Toolkit

This document is organized into sections that provide detailed information on available resources, partners we collaborate with, and opportunities for survivors to rebuild their lives. Users can navigate sections to find specific information on reporting, support services, housing, medical and mental health services, legal aid, education, and employment opportunities.

3. Partners

Community Organizations:

Brightside Child and Family Advocacy CASA: Brightside conducts forensic interviews, family and victim advocacy, and therapy referrals.

Services:

- Court-appointed special advocates (CASA)/Guardian ad Litem (GAL) volunteers play a crucial role in enabling vulnerable children to thrive by supporting their physical health, as well as their social, behavioral, and emotional functioning. They ensure that children receive necessary services from early childhood through adulthood, fostering their well-being over time.

- The volunteers place young children with loving, consistent caregivers because nurturing relationships are key to healthy development for infants and young children. Brightside advocates for appropriate educational placements and services, as foster children often struggle academically or have disabilities.

- Advocates help youth set and achieve postsecondary and career goals, as many foster youths have previously had to become self-reliant without adequate preparation for independent living.

Park Place Outreach: Park Place Outreach is dedicated to supporting vulnerable youth through a variety of services designed to ensure their safety, stability, and well-being. They offer emergency shelter, street outreach, family support programs, and transitional living assistance. These services include safe housing, counseling, educational support, life skills training, and employment opportunities.

Services:

- Youth Emergency Shelter:

  Park Place provides a 24/7/365 youth emergency shelter, staffed around the clock to admit children at any time. Youth can self-admit without an adult. A dedicated team of about 20 staff, including case managers and youth advocate specialists, ensures the well-being of each resident by offering personalized care and programming. They provide meals, comfortable sleeping accommodations, counseling, tutoring, clothing, transportation, and enrichment activities.

- Transitional Living Program:

  The Transitional Living Program at Park Place Outreach offers homeless, runaway, and at-risk young men (ages 16-21) a stable environment while teaching skills for independence and self-sufficiency. This 18-month residential program emphasizes well-being, academic success, housing stability, and employment opportunities. Residents receive life skills training, case management, and personalized services to help them lead secure, purpose-filled lives. Dedicated specialists assist with transitioning, healthcare, financial management, education, employment, community connections, and preparation for independent living, including aftercare services.

- Street Outreach Program (S.O.P):

  The Street Outreach Program (S.O.P.) at Park Place Outreach assists runaway and homeless youth aged 11 to 21 in Chatham County through the Dobransky Drop-In Center, offering counseling, enrichment opportunities, and basic necessities. The program also provides community presentations on issues like human trafficking, teen dating violence, anger management, and STD awareness, facilitated by peer mentors. Their mobile unit also goes into the community to deliver care packages and resource information, and eligible youth may access temporary residential housing.

- Family Always Matters Program (F.A.M):

The Family Always Matters Program (F.A.M.) at Park Place, located in the Dobransky Drop-in Center, supports teens and their families with case management and placement prevention services to maintain stability. Running after school Monday through Thursday and during summer months, the program offers academic support, life skills, coping strategies, and health classes. They provide transportation from select schools and home.

- Coastal Georgia Rural Homeless Diversion Service:

  This service is designed to stabilize individuals aged 18-24 in Bryan, Effingham, and Liberty County. It aims to prevent homelessness by assisting young people in identifying immediate housing alternatives. Participants receive essential services and financial aid, facilitating their transition back to permanent housing.

- Continuum of Care:

  The Continuum of Care provided by partners in Savannah, Georgia, focuses on addressing homelessness and supporting lower-income individuals and families through:

  - Outreach and direct support services aimed at preventing and ending homelessness
  - Emergency shelter and transitional housing options
  - Essential services such as meals, hygiene facilities, and clothing
  - Educational and employment programs to enhance self-sufficiency
  - Legal assistance and advocacy for housing rights and related issues
  - Counseling, case management, and therapeutic interventions for individuals and families in crisis

Heads-Up Guidance Services (HUGS): HUGS offers counseling for the under-insured or those without financial means, provided by professional counselors who volunteer their time and expertise. The compassionate staff is committed to a comprehensive approach, meeting the behavioral health needs of families and individuals of all ages.

Services begin with a call to HUGS' main office to schedule an intake session. The intake, lasting about an hour, gathers information and allows clients to share their needs and goals. The $40 fee is required in advance to confirm the appointment. Within a few days, the clinical team assigns a counselor, who then contacts the client to schedule the initial session.

Service Types:

- Individual

  Heads Up Guidance Service offers individual counseling for behavioral health and addiction recovery, serving motivated individuals of all ages. This counseling provides a safe, confidential space to explore challenges, develop coping strategies, and work toward recovery goals. Support is available for issues such as depression, anxiety, trauma, PTSD, addiction, mental health disorders, and challenges faced by military personnel, veterans, and their families during transitions to civilian life and trauma recovery.

- Youth Services

  Adolescents can receive individual counseling or join the HUGS YES Group (Youth Empowerment Services), where they receive support through counseling and psychoeducational sessions. Topics include substance abuse education, managing emotions like grief, anger, and anxiety, navigating social challenges, and understanding teen health issues, including sexuality.

- Marriage & Family

  Heads Up Guidance Service offers counseling to restore relationships for couples and families using approaches like Imago Relationship Therapy, Communication Analysis, and Positive Psychology for couples, as well as Supportive Therapy and Systemic Family Therapy for families. The counseling addresses domestic concerns and dysfunctional behaviors, focusing on communication, emotional support, and conflict resolution to strengthen relationships and family dynamics.

- Assessments

  This assessment is a comprehensive professional evaluation, often required by schools or probation, that focuses on behavioral health functioning. Assessments include substance abuse, suicide risk, anger management, and biopsychosocial evaluations. Priced at a discounted rate of $90, the assessment covers intake, evaluation, and a detailed report with treatment recommendations. These assessments help identify areas of concern and guide appropriate treatment strategies.

- Group

  A variety of group services are offered, including Women's Abuse & Trauma Support Groups and Intensive Outpatient Services (IOS). Participation requires confirmation and a pre-group consultation. Group sessions are generally free for regular clients, with a $15 fee for community members, except for IOS, which costs $35 per session plus a $15 fee for drug screens. These groups provide structured support to address specific needs and promote healing in a supportive environment.

Mary's Place: Mary's Place provides a range of supportive services for survivors of sexual assault and their families. These services aim to empower survivors and provide essential support during their recovery process. These include 24/7 telephone advocacy, hospital accompaniment for survivors seeking support, survivor advocacy, counseling services, support groups, a victim notification portal, and resources for self-defense courses.

Services:

- Telephone Advocacy: Available 24/7, the crisis line offers support and information to survivors of sexual assault, and their family and friends. Staffed by trained advocates, callers can ask questions, express feelings, or receive support at any time.

- Hospital Accompaniment: Trained advocates provide support at area hospitals for survivors, whether or not they choose to report the rape to the police. If they do report, the police will call for an advocate.

- Survivor Advocacy: Mary's Place advocates on an administrative level to address any insensitivity shown by officials or agencies.

- Counseling Services: Free, confidential counseling is available for survivors and those affected by sexual violence. It addresses trauma, crisis management, and rebuilding control and trust. Appointments can be made at 912-233-3000.

- Support Groups: A six-session program is available for adult survivors of childhood sexual abuse, offering a space to cope and be heard.

- Victim Notification Portal: The Sexual Assault Kit Victim Notification Portal assists survivors in tracking previously untested kits. Visit notify.svrga.org to set up notifications for reopened investigations and prosecutions.

- Self Defense: Mary's Place can direct inquiries about ongoing self-defense courses and share basic verbal and physical techniques.

Law Enforcement and Legal Aid:

H.O.P.E. Court: HOPE Court aims to support minor victims of human trafficking, enhancing their lives and those of their families. The court focuses on addressing the specific needs of youth involved in human sex and labor trafficking, aiming to strengthen them through improved support, resources, and tools for productive and healthy living. Key goals include identifying, treating, and referring victims, fostering collaboration among partners, recognizing both short and long-term successes, emphasizing positive reinforcement, and coordinating services for sustained progress and healing.

GBI Child Abuse Investigative Support Center: The GBI offers several services relevant to survivors of human trafficking. The Georgia Sex Offender Registry maintains records of violent sexual offenders, which can be useful for ensuring safety and awareness. Criminal history records are available through local Sheriff's or Police Departments, aiding in background verification and providing essential context. Additionally, Prevent Child Abuse (PCA) Georgia focuses on preventing child abuse and neglect, offering valuable resources and support for individuals affected by trafficking.

Chatham County Juvenile Court: The Juvenile Court handles delinquent complaints for children under 17 years old, and for Child in Need of Services (CHINS) or dependent children, the age limit extends to those under 18. Complaints can be initiated by parents, victims, law enforcement, social service agencies, or other knowledgeable parties. The Court Administrator manages all administrative operations, including personnel and financial management.

UGA CEASE Clinic: The CEASE Clinic provides free, quality legal representation to survivors of child sexual abuse, exploitation, and trafficking. They actively work to prevent the sexual abuse-to-prison pipeline and have incorporated Trust-Based Relational Intervention, an attachment-based and trauma-informed approach, to better support children affected by complex trauma.

Education and Personal Development:

Georgia Southern University: Georgia Southern University serves over 26,100 students through 132 degree programs across bachelor's, master's, and doctorate levels, offered on campuses in Statesboro, Savannah, Hinesville, and online. As part of the University System of Georgia, it emphasizes student-focused teaching, research with community impact, and a culture of engagement. Georgia Southern also offers a unique study-abroad center in Wexford, Ireland, and ranks nationally in the Top 100 for producing degrees for diverse students.

Savannah State University: Savannah State University, founded in 1890 as Georgia's first public HBCU, offers 30 baccalaureate and five graduate degrees across four colleges: Business Administration, Education, Liberal Arts & Social Sciences, and Sciences & Technology. With a total enrollment of 3,100 students, SSU provides quality education at three campuses: the main campus, the Coastal Georgia Center, and the Marine Science Center. The university is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and provides financial aid to over 90% of its students.

Savannah Technical College: Savannah Tech provides a flexible Adult Education program for obtaining a high school equivalency (GED or HiSET) with options for both in-person and online learning. The program is free and includes Career Plus HSE, which integrates basic education with career training, and Fast Forward, which combines GED/HiSET courses with career preparation. To start, schedule an appointment at one of their six Chatham County locations, and bring a valid government-issued photo ID (for ages 18 and older) or necessary documentation for minors aged 16-17. The orientation, intake paperwork, and assessment may take up to 4 hours.

Elevate Academy: Elevate Academy offers a free, three-month online professional development program for survivors of human trafficking. The program includes two core courses and one elective, all designed by survivors to ensure relevance and empathy. Participants engage in live discussions, instructional videos, community networking, and interactive workbooks to support career transitions and personal growth. Course offerings include LifePlan Launch: New Beginnings, which helps define life goals and create action plans; Professional Development, covering essential skills like communication and business etiquette; and Advanced Professional Development, focusing on advanced business skills and emotional intelligence.

4. Opportunities for Victims of Trafficking

Employment and Career Development

Chatham Apprentice Program: Step-Up Savannah's CAP Program helps unemployed and under-employed Chatham County residents find or create career paths that offer family-sustaining wages and opportunities for advancement. They offer career coaching, job placement assistance, reentry counseling, including record restrictions when feasible, aid in obtaining a TWIC card, partial CDL scholarships, and certifications such as OSHA 10-HR General Industry, Servsafe, and Emergency Services (Firefighter, EMTR, EMT Basic, Dispatcher). The program aims to create sustainable career paths with opportunities for advancement and family-sustaining wages.

GOGAL Program: GOGAL (Georgia Opportunities for Gainful Employment and Learning), offered by Step Up Savannah in collaboration with Access to Capital for Entrepreneurs, supports entrepreneurial women in overcoming employment barriers and starting their own businesses.

Services

- ➢ The program offers single female heads of household, specifically women of color who are 2022 or 2023 graduates of the Chatham Apprentice Program, the opportunity to receive entrepreneurial training and a startup grant.
- ➢ Upon completing the start-up business training with the ACE Women's Business Center, participants receive up to $2,500 to cover essential start-up expenses, including licensure, laptops, headshots, logo and branding, business cards, and websites. This support helps offset out-of-pocket costs, empowering women to realize their business dreams.

State-wide Programs:

Tharros Place: Tharros Place provides a safe and supportive residential environment for minor survivors of human trafficking, specifically girls aged 12-17. The facility offers individualized care, including therapy, educational support, and life skills training. Residents attend school virtually, ensuring continuity in their education. Tharros Place also provides recreational activities that help rebuild trust and foster positive relationships. The staff is trained to address the complex trauma these young survivors face, offering the care and support needed for healing and recovery.

Wellspring Living: Wellspring Living provides trauma-informed residential care for women and youth, offering education, training, and therapy to support long-term stability. Their community program offers essential services like life skills classes and mental health support, while post-program services provide ongoing assistance, including housing support and case management, to ensure continued progress toward independence.

Park Place: Park Place Outreach provides essential support to at-risk youth in Savannah, offering safety, guidance, and caring adult connections to combat homelessness and instability. With accreditation and support from local and federal agencies, Park Place Outreach is dedicated to changing lives and giving hope to young people in need.

National Programs:

Child Trafficking Victim Assistance Demonstration Program: This program provides federal funding for case management services to foreign victims and potential victims seeking Health and Human Services (HHS) Certification throughout the United States. The program supports victims in obtaining certification and accessing critical services, including case management, referrals, emergency assistance, housing, medical services, limited legal aid, and more. All resources are aimed at helping victims rebuild their lives free from violence and exploitation.

Qualifications:

- ➢ To qualify for assistance, individuals must meet specific eligibility criteria, such as being victims of severe trafficking with HHS Certification or seeking assistance to achieve such certification. Dependent minors of certified victims or potential victims are also eligible, along with family members under derivative T Visa status. However, U.S. citizens, refugees, asylees, and certain other groups are not eligible for benefits.

Office for Victims of Crimes: They provide funding to enhance programs supporting victims of sex and labor trafficking, aiming to develop, expand, and strengthen services nationwide. Various funding opportunities are regularly available, including the Housing Assistance Grant Program, which supports shelter, transitional housing, and related aid for victims. Additionally, OVC allocates funds for organizations proposing innovative solutions to improve access to victim services, ensuring comprehensive support for trafficking survivors and those affected by domestic violence.

Made for Freedom: Provides scholarships to help survivors of human trafficking advance careers and skills.

Scholarships offered:

- ➢ The Individual Career Advancement Scholarship supports survivors pursuing new skills or career transitions through certification programs, vocational training, or continuing education.
- ➢ The Partner Center Training Scholarship is for organizations working with Made for Freedom, funding training workshops, seminars, or team-building exercises to enhance professional growth and workplace effectiveness.

5. Additional Resources

Online Resources

Polaris Project: They provide extensive support for human trafficking victims through a national hotline, survivor resources, and data on trafficking patterns.

- ➢ Resilience Fund offers direct cash assistance to survivors nationwide, bridging gaps left by traditional resources.
- ➢ Polaris publishes annual data from various communication channels with the U.S. National Human Trafficking Hotline, offering insights into sex and labor trafficking in North America.
- ➢ The Financial Intelligence Unit collaborates with the global financial sector to detect human trafficking via financial footprints, conducting training and supporting criminal cases against traffickers.
